A LaTeX Template

For QUT Doctorate of Philosophy Dissertations

by

Hilton Bristow
B.E. Mechatronics (Hons I)

School of Computer Science
The Queensland University of Technology

A dissertation submitted in partial fulfilment of the requirements for the degree of Doctor of Philosophy

October 9, 2014

Keywords: dissertation, LaTeX, PhD, template, thesis, QUT.

In accordance with the requirements of the degree of Doctor of Philosophy in the School of Computer Science, I present the following thesis entitled,

A LaTeX Template
For QUT Doctorate of Philosophy Dissertations

This work was performed under the supervision of Professor Simon Lucey. I declare that the work submitted in this thesis is my own, except as acknowledged in the text and footnotes, and has not been previously submitted for a degree at The Queensland University of Technology or any other institution.

Hilton Bristow

To those who seek knowledge for the satisfaction of the mind, and understanding of the world

Acknowledgements

Abstract

Contents

1 Introduction 1

Chapter 1

Introduction

> "The word pretty is unworthy of everything you will be. And no child of mine will be contained in five letters. You will be pretty intelligent, pretty creative, pretty amazing. But you will never be merely pretty."
>
> – Katie Makkai

When I was just a little girl, I asked my mother, "What will I be? Will I be pretty, will I be pretty, will I be pretty?!" What comes next? Oh right, will I be rich – which is almost pretty depending on where you shop. And the pretty question infects from conception passing blood and breathe into cells. The word hangs from our mothers hearts in a shrill fluorescent floodlight of worry. Will I be wanted? Worthy? Pretty?

Bibliography